

Powerboat Event 12th May 2013

Overview

The planned route will leave Largs Yacht Haven and head roughly North West to pass the north end of Cumbrae before crossing towards Rothsey. From there we will be heading North West up the east Kyle to the Burnt Islands.

Passing the Burnt Islands we will follow the Kyles round to Ardlamont Point.

From there, depending on weather, the options are to head south down Loch Fyne and back to largs via Cumbrae or retrace the route back through the Kyles.

The route distance is between 40 and 50 NM depending on which return leg is chosen. Please ensure you have enough range including reserve. Fuel is available at Largs Yacht Haven.

Slipway launching will be available at Largs Yacht Haven, check in at reception to arrange this when you arrive.

A suitable lunch stop will be identified to take into account weather conditions expected on the day. It would be advisable to bring all food for the day on board as landing at a restaurant is not guaranteed.

A short briefing will be held at Largs Sailing Club at 9:15 to cover the plan on the day.

Skipperers are responsible for ensuring that their boat and crew are capable of the passage with appropriate equipment, fuel, life jackets, charts, VHF, safety gear etc.

A couple of RYA powerboat instructors will be coming on the trip and will be around the marina in the morning to answer questions or help out with boat preparation etc.

During the event any information will be passed by the lead boat on VHF Ch 77. It would be appreciated if any vessels that leave the trip during the day call the lead boat to let us know.

Please register your interest to david.hill@clydemuirshiel.co.uk as any updates will be emailed out
